

Media Release,

26th March, 2010

SOS Marine- A Great Australian Story

SOS Marine is an ISO 9001 Quality Endorsed Company, manufacturers of specialised safety, combat and security equipment to the Australian Army and Navy, State and Federal Police Forces, Customs and Correctional Services departments, as well as a number of Allied Defence Forces. We are a global Australian company based in Sydney Australia supplying 7 Navies around the world.

SOS Marine plays an important role in designing products for many of our customer's applications, researching and developing new products to suit challenging working environments.

With the increasing awareness for OH & S requirements there is a need for flexibility and efficiency for water-side workers. Using the latest technology, these Lifejacket Vests assists our customers to have a comfortable worker, by providing a safe work environment for those who work in difficult working conditions.

SOS Marine has won many awards, including International Award of Excellence in Safety and Protective Products and an Australian Business Awards for Product Innovation, whilst still maintaining very competitive pricing.

We have produced custom designed safety products that are now being used by the Australian Antarctic Division, our Coast Guard, Marine Rescue, NSW Maritime, SES, Marine Pilots, Fire-Fighters, Water Police, Australian Customs, Australian Federal Police, and the Northern Territory Police.

As border patrol and home security have become higher priorities in Australia and other countries, so has the demand for equipment that allows workers to operate efficiently with safety as a major factor.

The combination of features and functionalities was not available in the market for these products for many years. Our business provides custom-engineered applications and services based on over 25 years of accumulated experience finding solutions according to our customers requirements and needs.

Typically, a potential customer approaches SOS Marine with a need that is unable to be fulfilled from the existing products available in the market. Premium-end products and services are developed in response to this need.

SOS Marine works on a number of prototypes that undergo testing in conjunction with the potential customer. On meeting the technical requirements, the product is finalised and ideally the customer proceeds with an order.

We have succeeded in having several lifejackets comply with EN ISO 12402 accreditation. This has given our brand of lifejackets great credibility, another important step towards making a superior product and placing us in a unique forefront position in the world.

Our products, brands and services can be trusted for their reliability, range and quality. SOS Marine has become a leader in its chosen market and enjoys a world class reputation.

Media Contact:

Helen Mansour,

SOS Marine,

Phone: 61 2 9700 0233

Email: helen@sosmarine.com.au

www.sosmarine.com